Organisation of shooting:

The main shooting time is 5 min. for each discipline. The ammunition will be issued to the competitor before commencing the preparation. The competitor will be assigned the position on the firing line by the main referee. Throughout his presence on the firing line he follows all the judges' orders. After a discipline is shot, shooters will be called to the target where they will submit their scorecard to score points. The correctness of the entry is confirmed by shooters signature. After replacing the target, the contestants move back to the firing line and line up for the second discipline. Once the second discipline is shot, the competitors will move to the target again and write points with the main referee. Competitors who have all points from both disciplines leave the firing line.

A competitor will be not evaluated if he shoots any of the disciplines, but he will not turn in a completed and signed scorecard.

Supernumerary hits:

A competitor who finds supernumerary shots during shooting or immediately after shooting, reports them immediately to the nearest referee on the firing line. If the referee recognizes that there are foreign supernumerary hits in the target, but is not to determine where they are, he will mark the hit with the lowest point value. Foreign supernumerary hits, which are marked by the referee, are not counted. If there are no marked supernumerary hits on the target, the best supernumerary hits will be crossed out, and then proceed with a normal scoring.

Check of the targets on the stands:

No one is allowed to enter the the space between the firing line and the targets without the referees permission. Target evaluation takes place after the end of the whole shift. The competitor is allowed visually check his target. All shall obey the instructions of the referees and shall not touch any targets. The referee decides about the number of hits and multiple hits. The results of the targets are recorded on the scorecard of the competitor. After signing his scorecard, the shooter can not later post a protest.

Evaluation on each weapon separately:

When the points are the same from 1 to 10 place. Then decides the highest number of tens, nines, eights, ..

Evaluation for both weapons together:

When the points are the same from 1 to 10 place. Then decides the highest score from the pistol. If the points are still the same, the above decides.

Continuous score sheets will be posted in the shooting range area. The final score sheet will be posted after the results are counted for 30 minutes. Within two days the result sheet will be published on the website www.AVZO-cheb-mesto.cz
